Energy Shield Window & Door Company does not farm out our installs, only factory trained and certified employees from our company are allowed to install the products we manufacture or distribute. We are committed to providing our customers with a professional installation utilizing only the finest install materials. Even our caulking comes with a lifetime warranty. Other companies that farm out their installations allow the installer to select the type of caulking, type of flashing paper, type of trim and you wind up with whatever was on sale at the local hardware store. Energy Shield installers are only allowed to use brands of materials we have selected and tested for use in the Arizona desert.
