Preparing for Commercial Window Installation

Prepare for window installation to save yourself and your staff time on installation day and help the project go quickly and smoothly. Clear a pathway going to each window that installers need to access inside and outside. Protect furniture, equipment, tools, supplies, floor mats, and other property and create a safe workspace by moving these objects away from the installation work areas:

Remove window coverings and nearby pictures, wall hangings, and items on shelves to make plenty of space for the window installers to maneuver with the old and new windows and any necessary equipment.

Move outdoor furniture, planters, signage, foot traffic guides, flyer racks, trash cans, smokers' receptacles, etc., from work areas. Trim vines, hedges, trees, etc., or temporarily remove landscape installations as necessary to protect these and workers by providing wide enough access.

What to Expect During Your Commercial Window Installation

Use cordons or other traffic guides and line queues to direct patrons, employees, and delivery workers away from window installation work areas. Children should be carefully kept away from the installation work areas to ensure their safety.

When your Energy Shield installation crew arrives, take time to tell your project manager about any special considerations that need to be made or directions to follow before the work starts.

Installers will use an abundance of drop cloths to protect your business's flooring and larger furnishings and equipment that cannot or should not be removed from the work area. Our window installation experts are very respectful of your customers and property. They will take all precautions to ensure safety and professionalism and that your business's property is not damaged.

Throughout the installation process, our professional window installers welcome any questions you may have and are eager to address any concerns that may arise about any Energy Star products or the installation process underway.

As the replacement window project is nearing completion, the installation crew will carefully clean all work areas and haul the old windows away.

After the installation of your new windows, do a walk-through with the installation project manager to check for any issues and ensure there are no problems that should be addressed while the install team is still on your property.
